

The Interim Management Update
from Hamilton Rich
September 2005

Interim insights

When organisations identify an urgent need for additional management resources, a key constraint is that they may not have the relevant skills in-house. In this article, we outline the benefits of Interim Management as a means of providing further skills and experience to meet clearly defined objectives in a given time frame.

Interim Managers (IMs) can be used to manage a project, manage change, give additional support to implement a business opportunity, give support when existing management are absent or fully-stretched, or to simply improve overall business performance.

The secret is to adapt to a changing environment quickly, by applying specialist skills and a flexible approach and that's where the interim manager can step in.

To read the entire article please click link below and select "Recent Articles - Sept 2005"
www.hamiltonrich.com.au

Kind regards

Greg Rich

"Managerial talent of the highest calibre who can hit the ground running. And most importantly could be working in your company and making a significant difference"

Useful links:

www.hamiltonrich.com.au

Contact details:

Greg Rich
Hamilton Rich
Phone: +612 8295 5200
Fax: +612 8295 5299
Email: gjr@hamiltonrich.com.au

Level 3 Barrack House
16-20 Barrack Street
SYDNEY NSW 2000

If you do not wish to receive this newsletter in future please e-mail Caroline McAuliffe by clicking below. Please type "unsubscribe" in the subject line:

cmcauliffe@hamiltonrich.com.au